The Minister's address was consistent with the Declaration of Antigua, which will emanate from the Summit and it placed emphasis on integration, particularly South-South cooperation, as a vital route to sustainable development. ACS Member States at this Ninth Summit committed to taking cooperative action to, among other things, promote post-pandemic socio-economic recovery by building resilient and sustainable tourism industries, mitigating against the impact of climate change, promoting greater connectivity through improved regional transportation, taking concerted action to address barriers to development financing and stimulating innovation and technological advancement within the region.
